HONG KONG ADVENTIST COLLEGE

Hong Kong Adventist College (HKAC), established in 1903, is a four-year liberal arts college founded and supported by the Seventh-day Adventist Church. It has a strong tradition of providing quality education with an emphasis on developing the potential of the whole person. The integration of faith and learning provides a unique academic environment for students from a variety of cultures and religious backgrounds.

THE PROGRAMME

The Course is typically a 4-year full-time program, but it can also be pursued in a part-time fashion under the advice of the school to complete the program in a longer time. The Psychology curriculum prepares students for a wide range of careers in the behavioral sciences or in related professions that involve working with people. Primary emphasis is placed on the applied dynamics of human behavior and relationships rather than on animal or laboratory psychology.

The major requirements and cognates are intended to provide a scientific base on which a balanced program of electives may be built in accordance with the individual needs and interests.

A student majoring in psychology must complete the major courses, cognates courses, and courses in general education areas required by the baccalaureate degree of Andrews University.

STUDENTS TRIBUTES

Elisa Chongbang, Graduate 2017

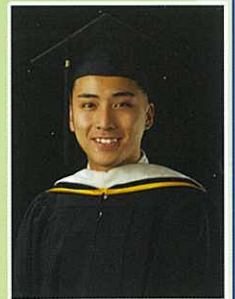

At Hong Kong Adventist College, I had the chance to learn in a multicultural environment, attend international conferences and had ample opportunities to do field experiences. I liked that the program focuses both on theory and practicality. The professors were helpful and provided their best guidance.

I developed a deep sense of importance of mental health and well-being in individuals and communities and aspire to contribute my professional career in doing so.

Ho Chuen Kwok, Graduate, 2019

Enlightened by the philosophical ideas and theories of people who studied psychology, I am captivated to achieve excellence in areas of academic, mental, and spiritual. I learned about myself and identified who I want to be through my study of Psychology at HKAC. The instructors were knowledgeable and caring. They treated their students like their own children and were willing to walk an extra mile to provide maximum level of support.

Through the partnership program and the generous scholarships provided by the institution, I was able to further my education at Andrews University. Psychology is a school of study that also teaches us skills and scientific knowledge that opens up the gateway to the professional world of psychology. You shall soon discover that your knowledge in this school could be applied to numerous fields, and you are free to decide where, who, and how you may want to provide service to. Our potential is not limited to our own personal lives, but to be a group that gives abundance of love, care, and support to lives within our reach.

Anne-Marie Ilunga, Graduate, 2021

This might sound like a surprise but studying at HKAC has been one of the best things that has happened in my life. I remember walking into the school compound not knowing what to expect. I remember getting a call from the admission staff, asking me if I was coming to school for the registration and I remember thinking whether I should. But I have to say, that call was the best turning point in my life. There have been ups and downs but that's part of life and one thing I have learned about life is that we should enjoy each ride like that of a roller coaster. I have gotten amazing support from the staff when needed and I couldn't thank them enough for making my life such a memorable journey at HKAC.

Looking back, there is no word to express how fortunate I was for all that I have learned from HKAC.

I can proudly say that I walked out of HKAC a better person.
