Dear Principal,

Dental Ancillary Training Courses 2024/25

I am pleased to introduce you to our three dental ancillary training courses, namely Diploma in Dental Surgery Assisting (“DSA”), Advanced Diploma in Dental Technology (“DT”), and Higher Diploma in Dental Hygiene (“DH”). Designed to train the dental ancillary personnel for the dental industry, the DSA and DT course are solely organised by the Prince Philip Dental Hospital (“the Hospital”) while the DH course is organised by both the Hospital and the HKU SPACE. The continued strong demand for dental ancillary personnel in the industry is fully reflected in our graduate employment rate which has remained consistently high in recent years.

The three courses are now open for application, and the course information including the application procedures has been uploaded onto our website at <http://ppdh.org.hk/en/training-programmes>. You may scan the QR codes below for easy access. In this letter, a featured article of the Ming Pao JUMP about our DSA and DT courses is attached for your information. Most grateful if you would bring the information to the attention of your students who may be interested in the courses.
